

Athina Bosta, University of the Aegean, User Experience Design Research

Unofficially I have attended two ERUA activities, mainly as an observer rather than an active participant. I have accompanied dear friends and PhD students to the "Post-Digital Institution Design: University as Institution" workshops (in Greece and Denmark) and the "Semiotics" course in 2021. After officially registering as a PhD candidate, I attended some online ERUA seminars.

The University of the Aegean is unique, as 18 departments operate on 6 islands of the Aegean Sea. This strengthens the Greek insular cities but simultaneously makes communication between its members more difficult. Therefore, individuals who are ready to be active and collaborate to promote information, programs, and opportunities within the student community are needed. Thus, I decided to pursue the role of ambassador, in order to contribute to the dissemination and communication efforts of ERUA activities. Also, my source of inspiration comes from the alliance's vision of solving today's challenges with interdisciplinary approaches, as well as its values of creating student-centered and inclusive university communities.
