

Claire VITOU

1 –Previous experiences in ERUA events/activities

I do not have many previous experiences with ERUA. Though, through one of my professors I had the chance last year to participate to a workshop organised in partnership with the University of Las Palmas. I was able to meet professors of Linguistics of the university and participate to their research project.

2 - What are your hobbies/interests and what is your major?

I love to draw, paint or create in general. I am also quite into badminton. Moreover, I love to travel and discover new cities, new cultures, to be able to share new experiences with different people. I did a double undergraduate degree in the University of Paris 8 in English and History. I am now going to start my masters in European and international studies.

3- Why did you become an ambassador for ERUA? What inspires you?

I wanted to be more engaged in the university and as I'm going to start to study Europe more I thought that it would be an opportunity for me to take a part into a European project such as ERUA. In addition to my desire for engagement, I thought that it was a shame that this project was not known more by students of the University and I am glad that I can help promote it this coming year.
