

Name: Dominika Jasita

Program of Study: Psychology and English Philology

Interests/Hobbies: I'm passionate about international cooperation, creativity, and rethinking education. I love sports – especially skiing and cycling – and I absolutely enjoy traveling and exploring new cultures. I also really enjoy organizing events, leading workshops, and participating in intercultural projects.

Why I became an ERUA Ambassador: I believe that higher education should constantly evolve – becoming more open, inclusive, student-centered, and responsive to the changing needs of society and the world. ERUA promotes exactly this kind of approach: modern, intercultural, and deeply engaging for students. This vision truly resonates with me, and I would love to contribute to a community that supports meaningful change in education and inspires action on a European level.

What inspires me in this role: I have extensive international experience and feel completely at home in multicultural environments! I'm excited to work together with other students from across Europe to create meaningful, creative, and impactful initiatives.

Previous involvement with ERUA: While I haven't taken part in ERUA activities before, I've been engaged in many international initiatives that align with ERUA's mission.
