

Matilde Poggio, Università di Macerata, Mediazione Linguistica

m.poggio@studenti.unimc.it

I'm a very outgoing person who loves getting in contact with new cultures and living new experiences day by day. I love traveling and languages are one of my biggest passions. I am very organized, honest, collaborative and sociable. I am also capable of running over any hurdle life puts in front of my path in order to reach the goals I set for the success of any plan. I also really like nature and practicing any kind of outdoor sport.

I became an ERUA Ambassador because I would like for all students, all around Europe, to find their space inside the society; to give them the rights they need and the voice to speak up their ideas and ideologies.

I am a very creative and determinate person, whom, at the same time, is always opened to listening and helping others.