

A little presentation of Serena Cinquepalmi, a new Ambassador of our ERUA community at the University of Macerata

Serena Cinquepalmi is a first-year MA student in Languages, cultures, and literary translation at the University of Macerata, and a fourth-year student of the "G. Leopardi" School of Advanced Studies. Thus, she is able to speak fluently English, French, Chinese and some German. Foreign literature is her primary focus - she is particularly drawn to Chinese books that explore female empowerment and emancipation. She is interested in studying the theme of the coexistence of different cultures in certain regions of the world and human rights. Through ERUA, she would like to travel around the world to meet and explore new cultures and customs, becoming more and more inspired by the beauty of being in a colorful world.