

Selina Cicek

ERUA Student Ambassador

Field of Studies: Law and Global Security

Hobbies and interests: Reading books; Singing; Playing the guitar; Learning new languages; International cooperation and cultural exchange; Law, global security, and international affairs; Personal development and lifelong learning

Motivation to become an ambassador for ERUA:

I became an ERUA Ambassador because I believe that many students are not fully aware of the incredible opportunities available to them through international academic networks such as ERUA. During my own participation in ERUA activities, I discovered how valuable these experiences can be for personal growth, academic development, and building meaningful connections with people from different countries and disciplines.

As an ambassador, I want to help students access these opportunities and feel confident about participating in international programs. I hope to guide them through the available initiatives, share my own experiences, and encourage them to step outside their comfort zones. ERUA offers much more than mobility programs—it creates a community where students can exchange ideas, develop new skills, broaden their perspectives, and actively contribute to the future of European higher education. What inspires me most is the possibility of bringing people together through education, collaboration, and cultural exchange. I want to serve as a bridge between students and the opportunities ERUA provides, helping them recognize their potential and make the most of their university experience.