My hobbies are: Traditional Turkish Islamic Art-Tezhip; Crochet; Cook like a chef.

Motivation to become an ambassador for ERUA:

I became an ERUA Ambassador because I believe deeply in international collaboration, cultural exchange, and active student engagement in shaping the future of higher education.

My background in international relations, civil society management, and project coordination has shown me how much people grow when they connect across borders and work together on shared goals.

I am inspired by ERUA's mission of building a more inclusive, innovative, and connected European academic community. As an ambassador, I hope to encourage more students – especially those from international and underrepresented backgrounds – to take advantage of European opportunities, build meaningful connections, and become active participants in shaping their own educational journey.
